

3rd INTERNATIONAL KIMBERLITE CONFERENCE
CLERMONT-FERRAND, FRANCE
1982

The third IKC was held in France at Clermont-Ferrand (Figure 3 IKC-1), from the 8th to the 11th of September 1982, and was held in tandem with the 1st Eclogite Conference. Whilst there are no kimberlites or diamond deposits in France, Clermont-Ferrand was chosen because the town is proximal to interesting regional volcanics and has easy access to the eclogitic rocks of the NW Italian Alps. Fieldtrips were organised to both these regions.

The author did not attend the fieldtrips, so pictures are confined to a principal social event held in Clermont-Ferrand.

Figure 3 IKC-2 Joe Boyd receiving an award from Adolphe Nicolas (University of Nantes).

Figure 3 IKC-3 Peter Suddaby (Imperial College, London) facing, talking to Bruce Wyatt.

Figure 3 IKC-4 Pete Nixon, with cup, wondering if he has upset Henry Dick of Woods Hole. The woman I think was a French delegate.

Figure 3 IKC-5 Jeff Harris and Roger Mitchell.

Figure 3 IKC-6 Sue Wass (O'Reilly) animated in conversation with Shimizu (?).

Figure 3 IKC-7 Bobby Danchin chatting to Joe Boyd.

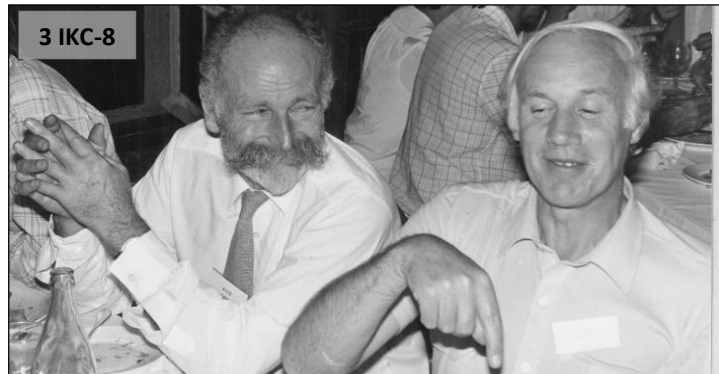

Figure 3 IKC-8 Alec Trendall (Director of the Geol Survey of Western Australia) with Barry Dawson.

Figure 3 IKC-9 Nick Sobolev in conversation with Vince Manson (GIA research director).

Figure 3 IKC-10 Wolfe Berg (University of Cape Town) explaining something to an Unknown.

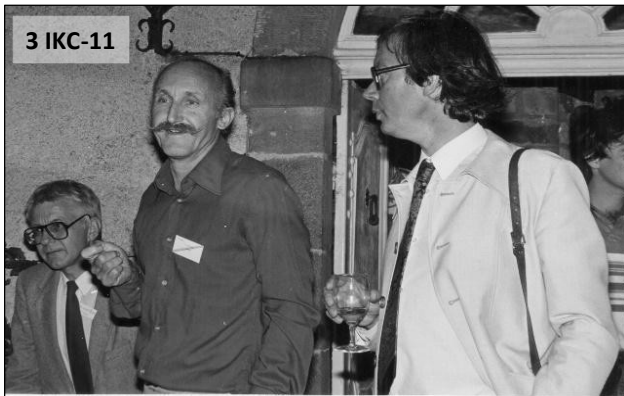

Figure 3 IKC-11 Adolphe Nicolas with Jacque Kornprobst.

Figure 3 IKC-12 Margo Kingston (wife of Joe Boyd) and Art Boettcher (University of California, Los Angeles).

Figure 3 IKC-13 Sue O'Reilly and Bill Griffin.

Figure 3 IKC-14 No, the author is not listening in on the chat between Alec and Barry.